Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

- 1.01 The Capital Markets and Services Act 2007 (CMSA) repeals the Securities Industry Act 1983 (SIA) and the Futures Industry Act 1993 (FIA). The CMSA, which takes effect on 28 September 2007, introduces a single licensing regime for capital market intermediaries. Under this regime, a capital market intermediary will only need one licence to carry on the business in any one or more regulated activities. This will mean less cost and paperwork for capital market intermediaries that carry on more than one regulated activity.
- 1.02 This handbook sets out–
- (a) the single licensing regime under the CMSA;
 - (b) the criteria to be met for applying and varying a licence;
 - (c) the application procedures; and
 - (d) ongoing obligations imposed on licensed persons, including conditions and restrictions attached to a licence.
- 1.03 This handbook replaces the following guidelines:
- (a) Guidelines for Dealers and Dealer's Representatives Under the SIA;
 - (b) Guidelines for Fund Managers and Fund Manager's Representatives Under the SIA;
 - (c) Guidelines for Investment Advisers and Investment Representatives Under the SIA;
 - (d) Guidelines for Futures Brokers and Futures Broker's Representatives Under the FIA;
 - (e) Guidelines for Futures Fund Managers and Futures Fund Manager's Representatives Under the FIA;
 - (f) Guidelines for Futures Trading Advisers and Futures Trading Adviser's Representatives Under the FIA;
 - (g) Guidelines for Submission Through the Electronic Licensing Application System;
 - (h) Guidelines on Permitted Activities for Stockbroking Companies; and
 - (i) Guidelines on Compliance with the Continuing Professional Education Requirement.
- 1.04 Guidance on the application of the relevant requirements of this handbook has been inserted, where appropriate. Any departure from the guidance will be taken into account in the SC's assessment on whether a breach of this handbook had occurred.

- 1.05 The SC may, upon an application, grant an exemption from or a variation to the requirements of this handbook if the SC is satisfied that–
- (a) such variation, if granted, is not contrary to the intended purpose of the relevant provision in this handbook; or
 - (b) there are mitigating factors which justify the said exemption or variation.

Note:

1. This handbook is issued pursuant to section 377 of the CMSA and has the effect of a guideline issued by the Securities Commission Malaysia (SC). The SC can institute an action against any person contravening the requirements specified in this handbook, including administrative actions against licensed persons; and
2. Unless otherwise defined, all words used have the same meaning as defined by the CMSA.

Chapter 2

LICENCES UNDER THE CMSA

2.01 What is a CMSL and a CMSRL?

- (1) The CMSA provides for two types of licences:
 - CMSL, which entitles an institution to carry on the business in any one or more regulated activities; and
 - CMSRL, which entitles an individual to carry on any one or more regulated activities on behalf of his principal.
- (2) Only a holder of a CMSL or a CMSRL can carry on any of the regulated activities that the CMSL or CMSRL permits.

Guidance to representatives

Note 1

You can only carry on regulated activities that your principal is licensed to carry on.

For example, if you carry on the regulated activity of financial planning, then your principal must be licensed to carry on that activity.

Note 2

The combination of activities that a representative is allowed to carry on depends on the nature of the activities, and whether there are inherent conflicts arising from simultaneously carrying on the activities.

For example, if you are an employee of an investment bank licensed to carry on the full range of regulated activities, including dealing in securities and advising on corporate finance activities, it is unlikely that you will be allowed to carry on dealing in securities and advising on corporate finance, both at the same time.

Note 3

If your activity of corporate finance also involves assisting your principal in its underwriting arrangements, you will need to be licensed for the two regulated activities, i.e. advising on corporate finance and dealing in securities. In this instance, your dealing capability will be restricted to the underwriting arrangements that relates to the transaction which you had provided corporate finance advice on. You will not, however, be required to sit for any additional licensing examination for your dealing activities.

Obligations on anniversary of licence

- (3) Both CMSL and CMSRL are valid in perpetuity. However, licensed persons will continue to have obligations on the anniversary of their licences.

2.02 What are regulated activities?

- (1) There are eight types of regulated activities under the CMSA. The list of regulated activities is set out in Schedule 2 of the CMSA. They are–
- dealing in securities;
 - dealing in derivatives;
 - clearing for securities or derivatives;
 - fund management;
 - dealing in private retirement schemes;
 - advising on corporate finance;
 - investment advice; and
 - financial planning.
- (2) The licence issued under the CMSA will set out the specific regulated activities that you can conduct.

Illustration 1

An investment bank applies to the SC for approval to carry on the full range of regulated activities under the CMSA. In this case, the licence will indicate that the investment bank is allowed to carry on all the following regulated activities:

- Dealing in securities;
- Dealing in derivatives;
- Clearing for securities or derivatives;
- Fund management;
- Dealing in private retirement schemes;
- Advising on corporate finance;
- Investment advice; and
- Financial planning.

Illustration 2

A 1+1 broker applies to the SC for approval to carry on the range of regulated activities allowed under the policy on permitted activities for stockbroking companies. In this case, the licence will indicate that the broker is allowed to carry on all the following regulated activities:

Guidance to Table 1

If you apply for a CMSL to carry on the regulated activity of dealing in derivatives restricted to offering of CFD only, liquid capital is to be calculated by deduction of all fixed or non-liquid assets, whereby liquid asset means–

- securities or other current assets that have a ready market, or that are capable of realisation within 30 days; and

- in relation to an asset, 'ready market' means a market where the asset can be realised without materially and adversely affecting that asset's value.

For avoidance of doubt–

- (a) unaudited profits must be included in the computation of liquid capital;
- (b) unaudited losses, including all unrealised losses except unrealised losses from principal positions that are mentioned in paragraph (d), must be deducted from liquid capital;
- (c) unrealised gains from principal positions must be included in the computation of liquid capital; and
- (d) unrealised losses from principal positions must be deducted from liquid capital.

Illustration

If you apply for a CMSL to carry on the regulated activities of fund management and investment advice, the following minimum financial requirements are relevant:

For fund management in relation to portfolio management

- Paid-up capital of RM2 million; and
- Shareholders' funds of RM2 million.

For investment advice

- Paid-up capital of RM500,000; and
- Net tangible assets of RM50,000.

The highest of the minimum financial requirements will apply to you, and this means that you must have a paid-up capital of at least RM2 million.

Once licensed, you must maintain the minimum financial requirements throughout your licence term. Therefore, your paid-up capital and shareholders' funds must be maintained at a minimum of RM2 million respectively while you hold the licence.

- (4) If your financial position falls below any of the applicable minimum financial requirements, you must not continue to carry on the regulated activity without the written consent of the SC. You must immediately notify the SC in writing of a potential or an actual breach of the minimum financial requirements and the corrective measures intended to be taken.

Clearance on loans and credit facilities

- (5) If you intend to carry on the regulated activity of fund management and are a company owned by individuals, you are required to ensure that your shareholders, directors and licensed representatives provide the SC with a declaration that they have satisfactorily maintained their accounts, loans and other credit facilities extended by banks and financial institutions within or outside Malaysia.
- (6) The declaration is to be in a format specified by the SC. The SC reserves the right to verify the information provided.

4.05 What are the requirements for a CMSRL?

General requirements

- (1) You must be at least 21 years old.
- (2) You must be fit and proper and satisfy yourself that none of the grounds specified under subsection 65(1) of the CMSA apply to you.
- (3) You must provide all relevant information to your principal to enable it to undertake the necessary due diligence before supporting your application. This is to ensure that you have satisfied the minimum requirements for carrying on the regulated activity.

Qualification and experience requirement

- (4) In assessing your competency to carry on a regulated activity, we will consider your educational and professional background. If your academic or professional qualification is lacking, we will consider your work experience and previous track records.

Licensing examinations

- (5) In addition to the qualification and experience requirements, you must also pass the relevant modules of the SCLE as set out in Table 3.

Validity of the licensing examinations

- (6) Your examination result is valid for two years from the date of passing each module of the SCLE. You must ensure that your examination results are valid at the time of your application.
- (7) There are three instances in which we will not apply the general rule on validity of the licensing examinations. These are as follows:

- (a) You have passed the SCLE while under the employment of a CMSL holder and remain working in the capital markets industry. You may apply for a CMSRL without having to resit the SCLE;
- (b) You have passed the SCLE while under the employment of a CMSL holder, and you resign to take up employment outside the industry before being licensed. If you return to the industry, you may apply for a CMSRL without having to resit the SCLE, provided your application is made within three years from the date you leave the industry; and
- (c) You were previously licensed and have left the industry. You may reapply for a CMSRL to undertake the same regulated activity for which you were previously licensed without having to resit the SCLE, provided your application is made within three years from the date you leave the industry.
